VOL. LXIII. No. 17. REDWOOD CITY, CALIFORNIA. SATURDAY, JULY 22, 1922. ESTABLISHED 1859

SENATOR SHORTRIDGE FOR VICE PRESIDENT IN 1924

California Senator Gaining in Favor; Will Earn Position in Hall of Fame

United States Senator Samuel M. Shortridge of California is slated for the republican nomination for the vice presidency in 1924.

This was the word brought to San Francisco Thursday by his son, Samuel M. Shortridge, Jr., and Joseph McInerney, local attorneys, who have been in Washington on an income tax case.

According to McInerney, the probable nomination of Senator Shortridge is a matter commonly accepted at the Wardman Park Hotel in the national capital, where the majority of the country's political leaders make their residence. McInerney also declared that this rumor had been definitely corroborated by Senator Samuel D. Nicholson of Colorado and by Secretary of Labor J. J. Davis.

Regarded as "Voice of the West"

"In Washington," McInerney said, Senator Shortridge is regarded as 'the voice of the west,' the actual and active representative of the needs and aspirations of this section of the country. During his service in the senate Senator Shortridge has unceasingly worked in the interests of the west; has attended meetings of the Republican party even now planning their 1924 campaign; has given advice and sought it."

At the present time, the attorney further asserted, Senator Shortridge is generally acclaimed one of the dominating figures in the administrative party and his selection as running mate to President Harding is conceded in political circles.

Western Leaders Favor Him

Senator Nicholson, leader of the western bloc for the party, is frank in advancing the name of Shortridge as the second in command of the nation in 1924, McInerney states. Other political leaders have followed the Colorado legislator, it is also said, and among these is Davis, a present cabinet member.

The movement to place Shortridge's name on the ballot is one of the first attempts in the history of the country to secure representation of this kind for the west.

To Stick Until Adjournment

It is the result of frequent complaints from the various western states in the western bloc, of insufficient power in the final administration of government affairs. Through the nomination of Senator Shortridge the dissatisfaction of years' standing will be wiped away and the interests of California and other western states will receive adequate protection.

Senator Shortridge will remain in Washington until adjournment of congress and at the present time is understood to be working out the details of his anti-lynching bill.

NEW PICTURES FOR NEW SAN FRANCISCO COMPANY

Edward Belasco, president of the Belasco Productions, Inc., announces that preparations are completed for their first picture. Mr. Belasco, accompanied by Victor B. Fisher, supervising director of Belasco Productions, Inc., are going to Los Angeles this week to secure one of the biggest casts that has ever been used for thi sproduction, the title of which will be announced in a day or two.

"Dancing Feet," a story with its scenes laid in and around San Francisco and the Pajaro valley and written by Anna Blake Mesquida, a noted California writer, has just been acquired by Mr. Belasco. There has been very keen competition for this story and the Belasco Productions, Inc., consider themselves fortunate indeed in securing same. In a recent scenario contest the Chicago Tribune offered a prize for the best scenario and out of 30,000 submitted Mrs. Mesquida received second prize.

"Baldy of Nome," Esther Birdsall Darling's famous Alaskan story, will also be screened by the Belasco Productions, Inc., as soon as the snow flies. It is the intention of Mr. Belasco to make all possible productions in northern California.

Belasco Productions, Inc., has a good many friends in Redwood City and San Mateo county, also quite a few have invested in the company and will be pleased to hear of its success.

It's Not the Picture---It's Your Eyes!

At the movies you often think the picture is blurred or the focus is bad. That's not usually the case—it's your vision that's defective and not the picture.

Perhaps your lighting system at home produces a glare that is harming your eyes or perhaps you have not light enough.

We have instruments for properly measuring your light and would be glad to assist you—free of charge.

SUES FOR $105,000

Miss Miriam Donald, who three years ago was a teacher in the Sunnyside school near Pescadero, has sued Philip C. Valentine of Oakland for $105,000. On June 20 Valentine, while trying to escape from a traffic officer at San Jose, ran his car into a machine in which Miss Donald was riding. Miss Donald suffered injuries and was obliged to have her right leg amputated at the hip. Because of the fact that she has become permanently crippled she believes that she should receive the sum asked.

Miss Donald was most successful in her teaching work and was greatly loved by the parents and children in the Sunnyside school district.

OLDTIMER RETURNS

Does anyone know F. E. Caler, who resided at Searsville in the early sixties? Well, you will soon have an opportunity to see him, for he will soon visit the old stamping grounds. He has sent the following letter to J. C. Eikerenkotter of South San Francisco, who knew the old gentleman as a boy. The Harding referred to in the letter has long since passed over the divide. He was a cousin of President Warren G. Harding and came from his old Ohio home at a very early age, settling in Searsville. The following is the letter:

Berkeley, Cal., June 29, 1922.

My Dear Mr. Eikerenkotter: I would like to when I get my vacation to make a trip to what formerly was Searsville, but what I think is now called La Honda. Is Redwood City the best way to go there? I believe there is a bus line both in the morning and evening, and is Mrs. Ida J. Sears proprietress of the Hotel La Honda, one of the family of the party whom Searsville was named after. I lived for about two years in Searsville, when a namesake of yours kept a hotel there. I think it was about 1865 that I lived there. It was somewhere beyond where a family named Doyle lived. There had been a saw mill on the place and if I am right, up on the hill beyond us a Judge Templeton lived and there was also a family named Weeks and I think a hunter named Harding. Old Dr. Stambaugh was the physician there at the time. As I said before, I may go there in my vacation and a mthinking of stopping at the Hotel La Honda. Any information that you can give me will be thankfully received. Thanking you in advance for the information, I am, yours truly,

F. E. CALER.

Woodside

Rev. and Mrs. Benjamin St. John have returned from their vacation trip by automobile to Carmel and vicinity and services will be resumed at the Woodside church on Sunday next.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Blackington, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stein, Miss May Malcolm and Dan McCarthy were dinner guests Thursday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Wells and Mr. and Mrs. Colin Stewart of Redwood City.

Daniel Jackling has purchased the Meyerstein place. This adjoins the Talbot property purchased by Jackling a short time ago and lies on the far side of the 40 acres of virgin timber that constitutes one of the show places of Woodside. The oaks here are very large and altogether untouched by the axe and it presents, perhaps, as close a replica of Sherwood Forest as any place that could be found in the state. While Douglas Fairbanks is filming his version of "Robin Hood" he could hardly do better than to place his archers in their Lincoln Green beneath the deep shadows of these majestic oaks.

Dr. J. L. Ross of Redwood City and J. L. Ross, Jr., of Woodside, have gone to Pacific Grove for a few days' outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cunningham of San Francisoc spent the week end with Mrs. Bradford Leavitt at Woodside.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mighall have returned from a motor trip of two weeks in which they visited Lake county and the Russian river region.

Mortimer Fleishacker and family have returned from Honolulu and are at home again at "Green Gables."

The property of Mme. Pinton, extending from the Woodside road to the Chamberlain property, has been purchased by Selah Chamberlain.

James V. Neuman reports that there has been a very enthusiastic registration of voters in the Woodside district, practically everyone entitled to vote having signed the great register.

The organization is assured of a very promising future in this city and the membership is composed of substantial citizens who are very enthusiastic for the Modern Woodmen.

FUNERAL OF J. B. FALVEY

St. Matthew's Catholic church was filled with friends Monday morning when a solemn high mass was sung for the repose of the soul of the late J. B. Falvey.

Father Robert Falvey, assisted by Father Conolly, deacon, of San Jose, and Father Mark Falvey, S. J., subdeacon, performed the sacred rites, and Rev. Father Callaghan pronounced the eulogy, offering words of comfort to the bereaved family, who are deep in sorrow over the tragic death of a devoted husband and father. The deceased was a man whose life was united closely with that of the church and gave three sons and two daughters to its service. Forty-five priests were in attendance, the occasion being marked by particular religious solemnity.

The Misses Irene Casey and Anna Dickie and Mrs. Thomas Hickie composed the choir, the exquisite music adding to the beauty of the mass, especially Mrs. Hickie's rendition of "Lead, Kindly Light." Mrs. Etta Johnson was the organist.

Messrs. T. J. Brady, George Duffy, P. O'Hearn and J. J. McGrath were pallbearers.

BAPTIST CHURCH

A college student, young and bright, will speak Sunday evening. Special solos and duets. The music will be in charge of Ted Edminster. Bible school at 10 o'clock, followed by preaching at 11.

AN OLD BOOK

Rev. George Atkinson, who filled the pulpit of the local Congregational church last Sunday, brought a wonderful old copy of the congregation. The book is about 1,000 years old. It is hand written in Hebrew and with the exception of one page is written on Egyptian papyrus, the one page not of that material being of parchment. The old book probably took some monk of the ancient times several years to write. It is in a fine state of preservation and demonstrates that the fathers in that olden time were not only fine penmen but also knew the art of bookmaking. Mr. Atkinson has had the Bible in his family for many generations and has refused some flattering offers for it.

Classes could change, presidents came and went, but Dad Moulton was always there. He will be missed by students and graduates who came to regard Dad as a fixed part of Stanford's athletic affairs.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS OF REDWOOD CITY

Redwood City had a taste of old time happenings Monday when a large body of soldiers passed through town. Besides the infantry there were about 40 trucks and a couple of ambulances and supply wagons. Five years ago such a sight would not have caused any comment, for Camp Fremont with its 40,000 soldiers made troops a common, every day affair. Now, however, it is a different thing and such a large number of soldiers as passed through town was quite a sight for the youngsters.

NIGHT ILLUMINATIONS

The people of Redwood City were treated to a brilliant array of searchlight illuminations Wednesday night. A number of very brilliant searchlights from somewhere near the bay threw their beams into the sky from 8:30 to 10 o'clock and lighted up all of the passing clouds. Wherever the beam struck it caused a large white circle to form and the way the lights danced about the heavens was quite spooky. We are informed that the display was caused by the drilling of a number of anti-aircraft companies of the United States army who are practicing in this section. Every time an imaginary aeroplane was located an aerial bomb was sent up and it struck its mark practically every time.

Not in Favor of Unmerging

San Mateo, July 19, 1922—Editor Times-Gazette: In your issue of July 15 I read with a great deal of interest the article by John E. Cowgill of San Carlos on the separation of the Southern Pacific and Central Pacific railways and I heartily endorse all that he said.

We should not forget what the Southern Pacific railroad has meant for so many years past to this great state of California. I have been a resident and large property owner of San Mateo county for over 50 years and no one has been more interested and active in the development and progress of the peninsula than I have. We may have paid high passenger and freight rates, but what would we have done without this railway? Would any other railway company have been more generous? This is a most important matter and we should give it careful consideration before we decide to desert an old friend for a new one. Again it may be wise to wait until the Union Pacific and other roads have officially announced their intentions as to how much more they will do for the state and special sections than the Southern Pacific has done or will do. At present we have only the personal opinion of a few who have given glowing accounts of the wonderful benefits and advantages to be gained all over the state by the unmerging of the Southern Pacific and Central Pacific railways and the Union Pacific and other roads taking their place. These railways may not be of any more benefit to us than the Southern Pacific has been and certainly did nothing in the very early days when rail transportation was so necessary to the progress of the state.

While I am as enthusiastic and interested in the advancement and the progress of the peninsula, personally I believe the Southern Pacific and Central Pacific railways should be allowed to operate their lines as they always have, unmolested. With our fast increasing population and many attractions, including Pacific City, which is destined to be a rival to Atlantic City, N. J., there must be increased facilities for rail transportation and I firmly believe the Southern Pacific Company will be equal to the emergency and do all in its power to further the interests of the peninsula.

While we are deeply interested in all that concerns our section of the state and should do all in our power for its advancement, we should be reasonable and just in this important matter.

MRS. GERALDINE E. FRISBIE.

NATIONAL CONVENTION OF POSTMASTERS

State President John E. Cowgill of San Carlos, Vice President W. H. Nicholson of Ben Lomond and State Secretary-Treasurer Mrs. Luella J. Matlack of Paynes Creek, Cal., forgathered at the Hotel Whitcomb Friday afternoon and evening with a committee of twenty postmasters from the various little towns around the bay for the purpose of perfecting arrangements for the national convention of the National League of Postmasters (comprising the third and fourth classes), which is to convene in Polk Hall, Exposition Auditorium, beginning September 18.

The delegates at this convention will hail from the little cities, the towns and villages, from the rural districts, from among the common and unsophisticated folks, those who haven't learned how to manipulate stocks or a short cut to riches and the easy life in any other way. They have worked for modest wages and will probably have but very little from their meager pay to spend with us. But we can be assured that they will prove an appreciative bunch of Uncle Sam's humble officials and if extended the hospitality which they so well deserve and the kind for which California and San Francisco are noted, they will prove great boosters for California and the western metropolis when they return to their little home towns. It was two years ago at the 1920 Minneapolis convention that the California delegation first extended the invitation for the postmasters of the country to hold their next convention in California, but Washington, D. C., won out for 1921. When the invitation was again extended at Washington, D. C., for 1922 there was practically no opposition. At the 1920 convention the twin cities, St. Paul and Minneapolis, vied with one another in their efforts to entertain the little postmasters of the country while they were their guests. Particularly did the postmasters and the mayors and the chambers of commerce of these two jealous cities manifest a liberal and lively interest in the men and women who are the final distributing agents of the merchandise from their industrial institutions. We have no fear but that San Francisco, the towns down the peninsula and across the bay will prove just as liberal in offering amusement and entertainment to the little postmasters of the country as the twin cities and as was Washington, D. C., where they were the guests of the popular postmaster general, Will H. Hayes.

The installation of the new officers for Menlo Park Circle No. 281, Companions of the Forest, was performed by the supreme chief companion and officers of the grand circle. After the ceremony a delightful strawberry festival was enjoyed by all.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Redwood City Chamber of Commerce at its meeting Tuesday night went on record in favor of the unmerging of the Southern Pacific and Central Pacific. Also the body suggests that the old ball grounds be made into a children's playground and that the system of auto parking be changed from the diggonal system now used. The chamber also recommended that fruit peddlers be not allowed to block the sidewalks on the highway, as to do so is unsafe to motorists.

CITY TRUSTEES HOLD AN ADJOURNED MEETING MONDAY

Lay Over Action on Appointment to Fill Vacancy on Board; Let Contracts for Sewers

Sewers in Oak Knoll Manor will be constructed by Chambers & DeGolyer, Oakland contractors, according to a contract let Monday night by the city trustees. The bid of the Oakland firm was $16,750.20, being more than $4,000 under that of the next lowest, submitted by W. J. Tobin.

Action on the resignation of Trustee Tuchsen, tendered two weeks ago and postponed from a previous meeting, was further postponed until next Monday evening, when the board will meet in special session to act on the proposed sewer improvements for the Jefferson Acres tract.

Passage of a resolution for the improvement of Roosevelt avenue with macadam surfacing was postponed until the next meeting of the board in August. H. L. Maharry, Mrs. Carrie Gillespie and other property owners along the avenue protested against the work being done at the present time on account of excessive costs. The cost was estimated by City Engineer Dimmitt at approximately $1 per lineal foot.

The trustees adopted a resolution calling for sewers on Rogers, Standish and other streets and along the right of way recently obtained by the city from the Tacoma Mill Company.

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company was granted permission to set poles along Finger avenue and Edgewood road in Wellesley Park for a temporary power line to the construction site of the Pulgas tunnel west of Redwood City. The permit was granted with the stipulation that the poles be painted and the city's rights fully protected.

A communication was read from L. P. Behrens, president of the Sequoia Union High School board, acknowledging receipt of the trustees' letter with regard to repair of foundations under the manual training building of the school.

The petition for a street light at Willow and Heller streets was granted and an amendment to the building ordinance passed providing a fee of 50 cents for inspection of buildings costing $300 or less.

City Clerk Price was instructed to write to D. B. Harding with regard to construction of a sewer line to his property at Hilton and Cassia streets, after the board had been informed by City Engineer Dimmitt that the cost of the sewer would be approximately $100.

Street Superintendent Dearborn was instructed to furnish a man to attend to the daily burning of refuse at the city dumps and to co-operate with W. J. Graef, chief of the United States public health service for San Mateo county, in the matter of destroying the rodents by poison. This action was taken after Con Drathman of the board of health had reported that no rats infected with bubonic plague had been found during his investigation of the rat problem at the dumps.

Repairs to concrete sidewalks on the south side of Grant avenue between Addison and Woodside road were ordered by the board.

The board of trustees of the Redwood City library submitted their annual report showing expenditures of $3,539.15; visitors during the year, 23,515; books circulated, 21,520, and new cards issued, 219. The trustees commended the excellent service of Miss Laura Barton, librarian, and thanked the library board for its record of the past year.

Trustee Carl K. Mabie presided at Monday night's meeting in the absence of Chairman McNulty.

MARRIED IN SAN FRANCISCO

Byron D. Ralston, a young rancher who resides in the Bear Gulch section back of Woodside, and Miss Ruby E. Dorsam of San Jose were united in marriage in San Francisco Wednesday. Mr. Ralston is a most estimable young man and is the son of Mrs. James Pritt of Woodside and the late William Ralston. Mrs. Ralston is a graduate of the state teachers' college at San Jose and has taught the San Gregorio school for the past year. She is a charming young woman and an exceptionally good teacher.

It is evident that the Ralstons believe in marrying teachers, as Mrs. Fritt's daughter married the teacher of the district several years ago, her son Melville married the teacher who taught in the district last year and has a boy who will be ready for school six years from now. And there are still more sons in the Ralston family.

SUPERVISORS HOLD SESSION

The San Mateo county board of supervisors at their regular meeting Monday went on record as endorsing the movement now being carried on by the press and campaign committee in San Francisco for the purpose of boosting and giving publicity to the northern portion of the state of California.

The resolution was passed following the receipt of a communication from the board of supervisors in San Francisco urging such action. After the San Francisco board's letter was read District Attorney Swart presented the resolution which was carried unanimously.

All members of the board were present at the meeting. A communication from Stanley Abel, secretary of the County Supervisors' Association of the State of California, was read, calling attention of the board to the fact that the annual convention of the association will be held in Eureka on July 26, 27, 28.

An application from Mrs. Jennie King for permission to establish a sanitarium in Menlo Park Heights, back of Menlo Park, was referred to Supervisor John MacBain for investigation and recommendation.

A letter from P. R. Thompson, chairman of the transportation committee of the Peninsula Bureau of Chambers of Commerce and Civic Organizations, was read and ordered filed.

Recommendations of Miss Florence Boggs, executive secretary of the social service commission, covering state orphan aid, received the approval of the board.

Following the presentation of a petition from 25 residents of Belmont asking that three electric lights be placed on the old county road east of the railroad at Belmont, Supervisor Rosalie M. Brown moved that the petition be granted.

District Attorney Franklin Swart presented a resolution amending a recent board resolution covering the sale of the Ravenswood school bonds, providing that the interest on the bonds be paid out of the interest and sinking fund. This received the unanimous approval of the board.

At Supervisor Hickey's request it was ordered that the county surveyor prepare an estimate of the cost of two concrete culverts on certain streets in Lomita Park where they are needed to carry off storm waters.

A resolution was introduced calling for the use of $2,500 out of the general fund for the regrading, surfacing and repaving of the coast road between Halfmoon Bay and Tunitas at certain points where it is greatly in need of repair. It being stated that the expense of this work was too great to be borne by the road fund of the fourth township alone, the resolution received the unanimous approval of the members of the board.

WILLIAM D. STEPHENS

Now that the time for filing nomination papers has closed and the time is rapidly approaching when the voters of California must choose their candidate for governor of the state, it becomes more apparent that Governor William D. Stephens will have very little opposition for re-election.

There is every reason why Governor Stephens should be returned to office. The most pertinent reason is that he has been true to his trust. When we look back over his incumbency we can see that he has lived up to all of his promises. He has had many problems to confront him. During the years that he has served as chief executive of this state our nation has been at war and is again at peace. War conditions and reconstruction problems have been just as acute in California as they have been anywhere in the United States, but there have been no troubles to adjust here.

Most of the official acts that have helped to keep California free from troublesome times were accomplished so quietly that the people have hardly known of them. With a wise business executive handling things such is generally the case. As some achievements of which Governor Stephens can be proud we could talk of the King tax measure which he put through in the face of opposition of all of the banks and most of the large corporate interests of the state. He has reorganized the departments of the state government and has put the budget system into operation, thereby making a good business administration certain.

Governor Stephens is honest, able and active and is the man for the place. Vote for him.

JOHNSON A FIGHTER

"In all probability there has been no greater tariff battle fought for the benefit of California producers than that just ending at Washington, where the same tremendous energy that he puts into everything characterized Senator Johnson's fight for adequate protection for the farm products of his state," says the San Bernardino Sun. "We specify Senator Johnson, not because any other member of the California delegation was disloyal or faint-hearted—they were not, and on the contrary they were supporting at every possible point. But nobody in Washington has any doubt as to who made the real campaign, whose influence and ability forced acceptance of schedules that eastern Republicans would prefer to have avoided. When any one talks about Senator Johnson having lost cast in the party organization or at the White House, the results of the tariff battle are an all-sufficient answer."

"A fine example of preparedness with facts was furnished by Senator Hiram W. Johnson in the debate on the almond tariff," comments the Chico Enterprise. "Leading the fight for protection of the almond growers against the rapacity of the candy manufacturers, Johnson asserted that the candy makers had cleared 300 per cent profit last year. This was denounced as untrue by Senator Lenroot, a champion of the anti-almond men. Instantly Mr. Johnson pulled an authentic statement by one of the leading candy manufacturers of America acknowledging the enormous profit. The senate was convinced and when the roll was called the advocates of protection of the almond industry won by a vote of 39 to 17. Such is the value of accuracy and of having the proofs at hand."

The Watsonville Pajaronian will support Senator Hiram W. Johnson for renomination to the senate of the United States and tells why in these words:

"The Pajaronian will support Johnson for the reason that he is a man who has a mind of his own; is a good two-fisted fighter; has the courage of his convictions and is not afraid to express them; is not a rubber stamp—a 'me too' to the administration—and since he was sent to Washington has kept California constantly on the map."

"California should re-elect Hiram W. Johnson as its representative in the United States senate," says the Modesto News. "And as its necessary contribution to the processes by which men are elected, the Republican party of California should nominate Senator Johnson at the coming primaries. Senator Johnson is an asset to the state of California and to the United States. And he will continue to be an asset during the coming six years. We need Hiram Johnson in the senate and we need more of his kind in the senate."

GIVES KEEPSAKE

In 1911, J. H. Strobridge, who is famous in the history of California as the man who built the Southern Pacific railroad system, was president of the First National Bank of Hayward and in that capacity he signed his name to a mint plate from which was cast an issue of $5 banknotes. The first $5 off the press he presented to his daughter, Mrs. S. C. Saunders, 2631 Clay street, San Francisco. Strobridge died last July at the age of 94 years.

Mrs. Saunders treasured the note as a keepsake for 11 years. But she took the bill from a safe deposit box and went to the headquarters of Senator Hiram W. Johnson at 949 Market street.

"I want to contribute this bill to Hiram W. Johnson's campaign fund," she said. "I prize it highly, but I want to help send Senator Johnson back to Washington. My father was a great admirer of Senator Johnson and I feel that this bill will be a talisman for Hiram Johnson."

Mrs. Sanders took the number of the banknote—P10018.

"I just know that the bill will come back to me some day," she said.

Mrs. Sanders is the sister of former Senator E. K. Strobridge of Hayward, for many years an ardent supporter of Johnson.

TRIP TO PIT RIVER WONDERFUL SIGHT

All the editors of weekly papers of northern and central California were the guests of the Pacific Gas & Electric Company on an excursion to its big power plant at Pit River last week. All returned on Monday loud in their praises of the company's splendid treatment and enthusiastic about the gigantic project about to be completed by the concern. None but those who have seen the plant can imagine the vastness of the big enterprise undertaken by the Pacific Gas & Electric Company. It took courage, brains and capital to inaugurate the system, but the heads of the company are men of brains, vision and possess a vast amount of courage.

The excursion, which was the best organized and most perfectly managed of any the newspaper representatives had ever attended, started on Friday night when the party boarded a special train at the Oakland mole. The following officials of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company accompanied the inspection tour: Wigginton E. Creed, president; John A. Britton, first vice president and general manager; A. F. Hockenbeamer, second vice president and treasurer; D. H. Foote, secretary; P. M. Downing, engineer in charge of construction and operation; Arthur H. Markwart, vice president in charge of the engineering department; Frank A. Leach, vice president in charge of public relations; R. E. Fisher, vice president in charge of sales; John A. McCandless, Honolulu planter and a director of the company; John H. McKee, president of the Mercantile Trust Company of San Francisco, a director; Fred S. Myrtle, director of publicity for the company, and the managers of the 12 company departments.

A Thousand Employes

The excursion arrived at Sisson at noon on Saturday and went immediately to the company's camp at Pit 1—a city in itself, housing 1,000 employes working on the Pit project. The camp includes a physician, a dentist, a complete commissary department, a tailor shop and all the requirements of a small community.

That evening the entire Pit development project was outlined in the great camp assembly hall. Joseph Jolyman, chief engineer of the department of transmission, gave details of Pit 1 and Paul Downing, the chief engineer of the company, explained motion pictures showing the

Burney Falls, near the Pit River

28 plants of the company. President Creed and General Manager Britton also outlined the company's plans.

On Sunday morning the party was taken in machines over Pit 1 plant, the intake at Pall River Mills and the power plants at Hat-Creek 1 and Hat Creek 2. In the afternoon the return was made to Sisson, where the party entrained for the company's Vaca substation, where the power from the Pit plants is to be "stepped down" from 220,000 volts to 110,000 volts for transmission out through California over four different lines.

High up in the mountains of northeastern California, under the very brow of Mount Shasta, 1,000 workmen are building a giant—a power giant—whose mighty arms, stretching down over the mountain ranges and valleys, will turn the wheels of industry, make fertile the fields of agriculture and light the streets and homes of the greater northern California that is to be.

Here these workmen are harnessing nature to the needs of man in one of the most tremendous engineering feats of the world; they are taking the great water power generated in the northern mountain ranges, running it through huge turbines and concerting it into progress and development.

$100,000,000 Development

In a word, this is the very soul of the tremendous Pit River hydro-electric development of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company—a $100,000,000 development project that expresses the faith of California's bankers and engineers in California's future.

Hat Creek No. 1 Development

This plant was completed and placed in operation on August 23, 1921. Water for its operation is diverted from Hat creek, a tributary of the Pit river, whose average flow is over 400 cubic feet per second. The diversion dam, a rock fill and timber structure, is located near the town of Cassel. From the dam a canal, 2,700 feet in length, with a bottom width of 17 feet, leads to the forebay at the penstock intake. The forebay has a capacity of 12½ acre feet. The penstock, leading to the power house, is of riveted steel pipe, 1,605 feet in length, and varies in diameter from 10 feet at the upper end to 8 feet at the lower end. The head of the pipe line is 216.8 feet. The power house is a reinforced concrete structure 43 feet wide, 56 feet long and 48 feet high. The generating equipment consists of one 12,500 K. V.-A. General Electric Company generator, operated by a Wellman-Seaver-Morgan 15,000 h. p. vertical turbine.

Hat Creek No. 2 Development

This plant is practically a duplicate of Hat Creek No. 1. It was placed in operation September 28, 1921. After passing through the upper power house the water of Hat creek is augmented by the flow of Rock creek, bringing the mean stream flow up to approximately 600 cubic feet per second. Water for plant No. 2 is diverted from the creek approximately a mile below plant No. 1 by means of a combination crib and sheet piling dam 456 feet long. From here a timber flume 4,469 feet in length, with a cross section of 16 feet 3½ inches by 8 feet 2½ inches, and with a capacity of 800 cubic feet per second, conveys the water to the head of the penstock. The pipe line is 413 feet long and varies in diameter from 10 to 8 feet. The head is 197.9 feet. Power house building and generating equipment are identical with plant No. 1.

Pit River No. 1 Development

Pit No. 1 will be placed in operation on August 23, 1921. The water is diverted from Fall river about a mile above the town of Fall River Mills, at which point the average flow is approximately 1,500 cubic feet per second. A concrete dam 600 feet long diverts the water into an open cut 1,200 feet in length, with a bottom width varying from 55 feet at the headworks to 22 feet at the tunnel portal. The canal is about 30 feet deep. Its capacity is 1,800 cubic feet per second. The tunnel through Saddle Mountain is 10,111 feet long, driven on a 3 per cent gradient. It is excavated in the shape of a horseshoe. It is 16 feet high and 13 feet wide at the base. The tunnel will be lined throughout with concrete. At the west portal is a reinforced concrete tank, or surge chamber, under construction, 55 feet in height and 60 feet inside diameter. Two steel pipe lines, 1,372 feet in length, 10 feet 9 inches in diameter at the intake and 8 feet 10 inches in diameter at the power house, will deliver water under a 454-foot head to the turbines. The power house building is 42 feet wide, 135 feet long and 82 feet high. It will contain two Allis-Chalmers vertical turbine units, direct connected to generators of 35,000 kilowatts capacity each, or equivalent to a total installation of 93,300 horsepower. Power will be generated at 11,000 volts and will be "stepped up" by means of transformers to 220,000 volts for transmission. After passing through the turbines the water will discharge into a concrete stilling basin and thence into the tailrace, about 1,200 feet in length, leading to Pit river.

Power from the Hat creek plants is at present being transmitted over a temporary wooden pole line to Cottonwood at 60,000 volts. However, with the completion of Pit No. 1, the Hat creek plants will transmit their energy to Pit No. 1, at which place the voltage will be raised to 220,000 and the Hat creek power will augment the output of the larger plant.

The transmission line, now under construction, will consist of a double line of single circuit "snow towers" from Pit No. 1 to Cottonwood, a distance of 60 miles, and a single line of double circuit standard towers from Cottonwood to Vaca, 141.5 miles. The "snow towers" carry the conductor in a horizontal plane, made necessary on account of the heavy snowfall in the mountain region. The copper used for transmitting the Pit river power is 500,000 circular mills in size, or approximately 9-10 of an inch in diameter. It is made up of seven "ropes" of copper stranded together, each rope being in turn made up of seven smaller strands. Over 11,000,000 pounds of copper will be utilized, representing an investment of well over $2,000,000 for copper alone. In the mountain section from Round Mountain to Pit 1 (27.7 miles) the conductor used is 518,000 circular mills aluminum with steel core. The conductor will be supported by strings of suspension insulators, 15 elements per string.

Vaca Substation

This station is situated on the state highway 4½ miles northeast of Vacaville, and will serve to transform power from Pit river from 220,000 to 110,000 volts and to regulate the voltage. The building, which will house two 20,000 K. V. A. synchronous condensers, is 42 feet by 128 feet and 38 feet high. All main transformers, high tension switches and bus structures will be installed outdoors. There will be seven 16,667 K. V. A. transformers, 220,000 to 100,000 volts, with 11,000 volt taps for the synchronous condensers. From Vaca the power will be transmitted to the distribution centers of northern California.

On Monday morning the editors were driven in automobiles to the Vaca substation, not far from the town of Vacaville, where after a delightful breakfast the station was inspected by the newspaper men. Every detail of the plant was explained by the chief electrician, J. P. Jollyman. Here the 220,000 voltage will be reduced to 110,000. At the breakfast the newspaper men were given a souvenir in the form of a paper weight.

This souvenir paper weight consists of a section of the copper cable through which electric energy will be transmitted from the Pit river power houses to the Vaca substation, a distance of 200 miles. Six of these cables, constituting two complete circuits, are strung on steel towers spaced seven to the mile, embedded in concrete foundations and having a height of from 60 to 97 feet, the former comprising a special type of tower utilized in the snowy regions. These two circuits have a capacity of 235,000 horsepower at 220,000 volts. In the construction of this transmission line ten million pounds of this copper cable and sixteen million pounds of steel were used. The cost of the line, exclusive of the substations, will run close to $33,000 per mile, which, in the good old days at least, would have built a pretty good railroad, fairly well equipped, and this notwithstanding the fact that all of this copper and a greater part of the steel were purchased by the company at very favorable prices during the depression following the post-war inflation.

The editors will always have a warm place in their hearts for the Pacific Gas and Electric Company; for it overlooked nothing in arranging for the comfort and entertainment of its guests. From the president to the lowest employe each vied with the other in serving and making their guests happy and showing them the wonderful project that is to develop northern California and transform its desert wastes into beautiful gardens.

The kind ladies at the camp provided sumptuous meals, waiting on the tables and rendering excellent service. To these charming and beautiful women the editors gave a rising vote of thanks on leaving. The officers of the company were also voted thanks, Florence O'Brien of Chico making the motion in a neat speech. M. F. Cochrane, the San Rafael editor, in an eloquent address set forth the vast undertaking of the company which should have the cooperation and assitsance of the people of California.

The excursion and the splendid treatment of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company will live long in the memory of every editor who attended.

NEAR COLLISION

Some excitement was caused on Tuesday morning at the corner of Main and Broadway, Redwood City, when a Ford sedan and Ford delivery had a near collision. Only the presence of mind of a lady driver in the sedan prevented a smashup. She was crowded on the street and in avoiding the other car turned onto the sidewalk at the bank, then could not get back on the street as cars were parked at that place. The sidewalk being clear, she steered the car straight ahead until an opening permitted regaining the street some 200 feet from the place the car left it. It is reported that the delivery truck was going at a great rate of speed.

CHAS. C. MOORE
Vote for
Chas. C. Moore
REPUBLICAN Candidate, United States SENATOR
Primary Election, August 29

Charles C. Moore, the Republican candidate for United States Senator at the primary election, August 29, will immediately be remembered by Californians as the president of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, held at San Francisco in 1915, the most successful exposition held in this generation and an exposition to the success of which all California contributed.

The son of a California pioneer of 1849, Mr. Moore at the age of seventeen, penniless, began that career which today has brought him state-wide recognition as one of California's foremost citizens and civic builders.

During this career, that has established him as one of the most successful business men of the West, Mr. Moore has always made time for public service.

Prior to the Panama-Pacific International Exposition he traveled the countries of Europe in behalf of the Portola festival, securing participation from all of the nations that he visited.

Still earlier he was chairman of the citizens health committee that organized to combat the bubonic plague and successfully prevented that threatened calamity.

He was active during all of the war bond campaigns and was president of the state council of defense. Today he is head of the Boy Scout movement in San Francisco.

He is the owner of the largest olive grove in the world at Sylmar near Los Angeles; has lemon and orange holdings in the south; is the owner of the Bremo fruit orchard near Rialto in San Bernardino county; is the owner of the Buena Ventura orchard near Cottonwood in Shasta county; has another ranch at his country home near Santa Cruz where he specializes in livestock and poultry; is a director of the California Central Creameries and is interested in a dozen other organizations and activities, representing different California industries both of the cities and of the interior.

It had been generally recognized over the state by Republicans, Progressives and Democrats that California and the nation required a change in the conduct of our affairs in the Senate at Washington, insofar as the representation there for this state was concerned by Hiram Johnson. Particularly during the coming six years when the world is going through a crisis and when there is needed sound, sane and conservative business judgment in the affairs of our government, it was felt in all sections of the state that California should make a change.

The conduct of Senator Johnson in his alliance with William Randolph Hearst was felt by many to be prejudicial to the best interests of California. The consistent policy of obstruction by Senator Johnson of the policies of President Wilson and the League of Nations; his consistent opposition to the present administration and President Harding against the Four Power pact; his acceptance of a retainer from the Tammany organization of New York in the traction case and his acceptance of a retainer from Hearst to appear before the Supreme Court, are considered as showing the departure of Senator Johnson from the straightforward principles of progressivism upon which he was elected. It is felt that personal interest and self-seeking have become Johnson's controlling impulses.

At a statewide meeting of Republicans and Progressives at the Palace Hotel in San Francisco the field was thoroughly canvassed, and the unanimous decision was that the one man in this state who could best represent all parts of the state was Charles C. Moore, and what amounted to a demand was made upon Mr. Moore that he offer himself to the men and women of California as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate in opposition to Hiram Johnson.

It is the purpose of this advertisement, within the limited space that funds permit, to refresh the public mind as to who Mr. Moore is and why he is now a candidate for the United States Senate. He is the type of man around whom all elements of this state can rally in the full assurance that California will have a safe, sane and constructive representation in the Senate with his election.

Register Republican today and vote for C. C. Moore August 29

SAN CARLOS NOTES

Mrs. W. H. Bernard and her two children, who arrived from New Orleans this morning, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Bernard's sister, Mrs. C. H. Durell, at Elm and Magnolia avenues. Mr. Bernard, who has resigned his position with the Illinois Central railroad at New Orleans, was expected to follow a month later. He has accepted the position of purchasing agent and sales manager in connection with C. H. Durrer's brokerage and importing establishment in San Francisco. He handled similar work for Mr. Durell in the New York City before the latter disposed of his business in the eastern metropolis to come to this coast. The Durells have become so smitten with San Carlos and its superior climate in the few months they have lived here that they will endeavor to induce the Bernards to also select our Garden of Eden as their permanent abiding place.

Mrs. E. Fanning has returned to her home in Richmond after several days' visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Edling.

P. F. Gonzales, foreman of one of the construction and maintenance gangs for the P. G. & E., is enjoying his annual two weeks' vacation.

Miss Jerita Isabella Nixon, who has been visiting with her aunt, Mrs. W. H. Nixon, at Laurellone, has returned to her home at Ojai, Ventura county.

Mrs. F. W. Elliott has returned to her home in San Francisco after a fortnight's visit at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. H. Nixon.

When Charles G. Lambert of the firm of Lambert & Walter of Redwood City appeared at the postoffice window carrying an expansion of that noted smile, we had presumed that he was happy at having escaped for a short time from the vexations of the hood office for a little relaxation in the healthful and soothing climate of San Carlos. But we later discovered him in the railroad station smiling and curtseying to a band of millionaire capitalists and big real estate promoters who were here to be shown over the big Phelps estate. We were unable to secure the names of these distinguished gentlemen for the reason that it is not ethical for these realty men to publish the names of their prospective clients for fear that the other fellow may grab them.

A. P. Johnson, the young patriarch of Belmont, was one of the distinguished callers at the city hall the past week. This 91-year-old gentleman, who carries his years so well regardless of the ups and downs and vicissitudes of life, gives the appearance of one 25 years younger. Mr Johnson is as interesting and shows the same lively interest in politics and the current events of the day as he did when we first knew him 16 years ago, when he was but 75. Regardless that he has been loyal to Belmont, where he first discovered the fountain of youth, he has always manifested a lively interest in San Carlos. Until recent years the walk to San Carlos was one of his favorite trips for his constitutionals. It is pretty hard for us to avoid one of the most important injunctions of holy writ in envying Mr. Johnson his secret to a long and cheerful life. He was here particularly to survey the local political situation in the interest of his friends. May many more years be added to his already large accumulation and may his visits to San Carlos be more frequent.

The bright little Miss Olga Mosero of San Francisco is here to enjoy a part of her school vacation at the home of Mr and Mrs. Thomas D. Ruggles, the popular plumbers. The Ruggles are old friends of the Moseros and little Miss Olga enjoys it as a fine outing from the metropolis to San Carlos for a visit with uncle and aunty Ruggles, as they are to her. Since the little 7-year-old miss first learned to write she has kept up a correspondence with her dear old grandma in sunny Italy.

Mr and Mrs. D. L. Stewart and children are on an auto camping trip somewhere in Shasta or Modoc counties. They expect to see every foot of that interesting country during their two weeks' vacation. They expect to keep going every day and camp only when night overtakes them.

Miss Halsie Senker of San Francisco is here for a short visit at the G. H. Senson home on Cedar street.

Last Tuesday A. Paulsen, the veteran well borer, received a wireless from Mrs. Paulsen that she had secured reservations on the steamship Maui and was starting for her return to sunny California. Mrs. Paulsen has been in Honolulu for several weeks with the hope that the short sea voyage and the change of climate might benefit her health.

We have learned through friends that Mr and Mrs. E. L. Bruner, who went from here to Sacramento several months ago on account of a change in position, are now at 1335 Blackstone avenue, Fresno. The Bruners are the kind of folks who make a host of friends wherever they may go and they will be long remembered by those who knew them during their three years' residence in San Carlos.

J. B. Bryan of San Francisco and family are now established in their new home at the corner of Laurel and Holly streets, which they recently purchased from the Mercantile Trust Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Babcock are over from Oakland for a few days' visit at the home of Mrs. Babcock's sister, Mrs. G. D. Nielson. Mr. Babcock is enjoying a two weeks' vacation from his work with the Bass-Hueter Paint Company of San Francisco.

At the present writing many are anticipating an enjoyable time participating in the festivities as guests of the new management at the grand reopening of Babylon on the evenings of July 19, 20 and 21. The present personnel at Babylon are men of wide experience in this line of work and great success is predicted for this unique place of entertainment under the present management.

Permanently Removing Spots by the F. Thomas Process

Spots that appear in clothing caused by grease, food stains, etc., quickly collect dust and dirt. They can be permanently removed by the "F. Thomas Process" without injury to the fabric.

The "F. Thomas Process" is a highly developed, scientific method of cleaning by which we obtain the perfect work for which this establishment is noted.

The cheap, "just as good" cleaner either washes your clothes in dirty gasoline, or scours his gasoline with strong sulphuric acid. It is dangerous to have your clothes cleaned in "acid" gasoline. It is economy in the long run to have your clothes they haven't been thoroughly cleaned.

If spots come back after your clothes have been to the cleaners, cleaned by the "F. Thomas Process."

MENLO PARK NEWS

Miss Mercedes Murray, the pretty young daughter of J. J. Murray, is to beiome a professional nurse, having entered St. Joseph's Hospital in San Francisco to train. She possesses all the qualifications to become a successful nurse, being kind, gentle and studious.

Miss Rita Schenkel and her sister, Lorraine, and Miss Grace Carleton have gone to La Honda to camp in the big redwoods for two weeks. These three little maids from school will enjoy their outing in the tall sequoias.

Fred Anderson has bought two acres in Atherton Acres. Mr. Anderson is the chief gardener for Mr. Heilman of Atherton.

Mrs. Vic Michell and her children are camping at La Honda, where they will enjoy the redwoods for a month.

Miss Bertha Kuck, who has taught in Las Lomitas school for several years, has been employed by the trustees of the Menlo Park school to teach next term. She will be the new teacher for the extra rooms now being added to the old school building. Miss Kuck is accounted one of the cleverest instructors in the state. She had numerous flattering offers in other districts, but preferred to remain in Menlo Park.

The offices formerly rented by J. H. Sullivan in the Coxin block have been leased by Mr. Golden, an inmate of the base hospital, who is to establish club rooms for the patients of the hospital. These men will have a resting place when in town and where they may find diversion in cards, checkers, pool, etc. These club rooms promise to become popular.

An up to date restaurant and a jewelry store are about to be started in the Maloney block. Both are needed and they should do well.

The old wooden gates on the highway near the Duff & Doyle store, erected in 1854, one of the landmarks of the peninsula, were destroyed last Friday night when a big automobile filled with joy riders crashed into them. The gay party did not wait to see the ruin after the car struck the gates. The wood arch was erected by D. J. Oliver and P. J. McGlynn, founders of Menlo Park, who arrived there in the "prehistoric days of the peninsula's fame, staking out a homesite near El Camino Real, which they named "Menlo Park" after an estate in Ireland.

For some years the imposing gates that connected the past with the present have been rapidly going to decay. Several years ago the Native Sons propped them up and did all they could to preserve the old landmark. A replica of the old gate appears on the banner of Menlo Parlor, so that it will always be preserved in the memory of the members of the local parlor. Generations to come will learn from the Native Sons' banner the origin of Menlo Park.

Edmond Cochrane received some bad bruises about the head last Friday night when an automobile he was driving crashed through the heavy ornamental fence surrounding the Walter H. Linforth home on the Middlefield road. Mr. Cochrane's automobile turned off the road to avoid a collision with a car coming from the rear.

Edward Sheehy, a patient at the Veterans hospital, is recovering from injuries received Friday when struck by a passenger train at the railroad crossing in Menlo Park. Sheehy incurred a fracture of the pelvic bone and was considerably bruised, but is not in a serious condition.

The younger element of the Menlo Park society set took part Saturday in a tennis tournament at the Menlo Country Club. The players were the subdebutante set and included Misses Katherine and Frances Stent, Dorothy Stevenson, George, Arthur and Henry Stevenson, Charles M. McCormick, Jr., Louis Lapham and Harry Bates.

The Bear Gulch Water Company has now an office in the old bank building with the Dumbarton Real Estate Company at the corner of Santa Cruz avenue and the highway. The large increase of service and great expansion of the Bear Gulch made it necessary for the convenience and other matters concerning its many customers to a central location with daily and regular office hours.

The recent death of Christian Reis in San Francisco was a severe shock to his many friends in Menlo Park, where he was universally esteemed and honored. For many years he made his home with his sons, Ferdinand and Christian, Jr., at the Reis estate near the Bear Gulch lake. He loved to dwell and commune with nature. The happiest days of his long life were spent at this attractive place. The aged capitalist was stricken with apoplexy three weeks ago while on his way from here to visit his niece, Mrs. E. H. Stent, in San Francisco. Christian Reis for more than 70 years a resident of San Francisco and active in early day Democratic politics of the municipality, served the city as a member of the board of supervisors and also as city treasurer, retiring more than a decade ago from politics. Thirty years ago with others he founded the Pacific States Savings and Loan Society, serving as president and director, which offices he held until his death. Mr. Reis served several terms as city treasurer. He was 86 years of age and a native of Germany.

The Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce held a meeting on Thursday evening and after much discussion the recent decision of the United States supreme court concerning the unmerging of the Central Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads was endorsed. The chamber also transacted other important business.

Judge and Mrs. Charles A. Shurtleff left this week on a motor trip through the southern part of the state. They are making the trip leisurely, stopping over in Santa Barbara, Coronado, Pasadena and San Diego before returning. They will be away a fortnight.

At the Menlo Theatre—Next to good eating comes good and wholesome amusement. Now see the photoplays Saturday, Sunday and Wednesday—they are unusually fine.

M. F. Duff, formerly of Menlo Park, has sold his pretty home at Burlingame and has bought another in Westwood Park, San Francisco, near the residence of James McDonald, a former Portola farmer. Westwood Park is the choice residence district of the metropolis where the well-to-do are erecting attractive homes.

Frank Kirkpatrick has purchased the Cora Parker cottage opposite the Southern Pacific depot now occupied by Mr. Cahalan. Mr. Kirkpatrick is to develop the property.

Frank P. Roach, the candidate for sheriff, is making a winning contest for the office by his active canvass. He is receiving support from prominent citizens in every portion of the county. It looks now as though he would make the grade at the primary election.

Not only have women taken the places of men in offices, in merchandise stores and are making the sterner sex look to their laurels in the political field, but they are actually invading the mechanical departments. This means the ruin of the unions. Mechanics will have to combat this invasion in future. Recently a mother and her two daughters from San Francisco bought two acres of land at Atherton Acres. The women are erecting a neat bungalow without any aid from man. They have put down the concrete foundation and are erecting the superstructure, using hammer and saw like finished mechanics. When completed the building will be the neatest in the tract. More power to their elbows.

ATHERTON RESIDENT DIES

Mrs. J. H. Bell, widow of the late J. H. Bell and mother of Miss Flora Bell, passed away Thursday, July 6, at her home on Atherton avenue.

Funeral services were held from her home July 7, the Rev. Hugh E. Montgomery officiating. Besides her daughter, Miss Bell, she is survived by three other daughters, Mrs. G. T. Marshall, Mrs. Kendall Morgan of Detroit and Mrs. W. G. Cooke of Plainfield, N. J.

EDITORIAL OUTING

Yesterday the editors of northern California left on an excursion to Pit River, Shasta county, as guests of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company. They will be shown the huge work now being done by the concern at that place. Millions are being spent by the company in harnessing the waters of that northern river for electric energy to be used in the valleys of California to run motors in irrigating sandy wastes. The hydro-electric system proposed by the concern will be the wonder of the world.

Among the editors from the county who went on the trip were Sam D. Merk of the Burlingame Advance, D. E. O'Keefe of the Times-Gazette, J. D. Hedge of the Standard, Walter Kellogg, superintendent of the Redwood City division, accompanied the editors.

The newspaper men will return on Tuesday next with glowing accounts of the magnitude of the enterprise that is to transform the silvery sands of the desert in a beautiful blooming garden.

DIED IN SAN FRANCISCO

Walter P. Fahey, son of the late Walter and Julia Fahey of Salada Beach, passed away in San Francisco Monday after a long illness. Mr. Fahey was born in San Mateo 44 years ago and was well known in this city. He had spent most of his life on the upper coast section of San Mateo county and was liked and respected by everyone who knew him. He was a brother of John J. and Thomas Fahey and of Mrs. Mary J. Welton. The funeral was held at St. James church, San Francisco, where a requiem high mass was celebrated for the repose of his soul. The interment was in Holy Cross cemetery, Colma.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Newcomer—Where is the Baptist church located?

Oldtimer—I don't know. Guess there is none in this town.

Newcomer—Yes, there is. I heard that Mrs. Farmer, a wonderful woman preacher, is to preach there Sunday evening at 7:45.

Oldtimer—Mrs. Farmer? Who is she, another Mrs. McPherson?

Newcomer—Well, much like her. Believes in real religion, divine healing and all that the Bible teaches. Something different from what you hear in most churches nowadays.

Oldtimer—Oh, I guess that is the church over on Heller street where Parker is the minister. I hear they are having great times there every Sunday now. Fine speaking and singing. Believe I'll be there next Sunday. Big meeting there last Sunday evening, they say. Ted Edminster sings.

PALO ALTO POST NOMINATES OFFICERS

Rev. George H. Whisler, the second succesive chaplain of Fremont Post, No. 52, American Legion, to become its chief executive, was nominated as commander of the post to succeed Rev. Reed B. Cherington. D. W. Buchan was named as vice commander.

Miss Edith M. Lyon and Miss Florence Mills, both nurses during the war, were nominated for the position of section vice commander.

The other nominations were: Adjutant, J. Broz; treasurer, W. C. Cobb; sergeant at arms, W. J. Pillars. An executive committee of four will be selected from among the following: Longueville Price, E. R. Lovett, Vernon Malcolm, Robert Parkinson, T. W. McQuarrie. An additional member will be selected later from the veterans' hospital.

Four delegates to the state convention to be held at San Jose in the fall and four alternates will be chosen from among the following eight Legioners: Harry W. Maloney, Geo. F. Morell, D. W. Buchan, George H. Whisler, W. J. Pillars, J. Broz, W. C. Cobb and Harold Moss.

Dr. R. H. Stanley, medical officer in command of the veterans' hospital, made a short address that was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the work being done at the hospital for the benefit of ex-service men.

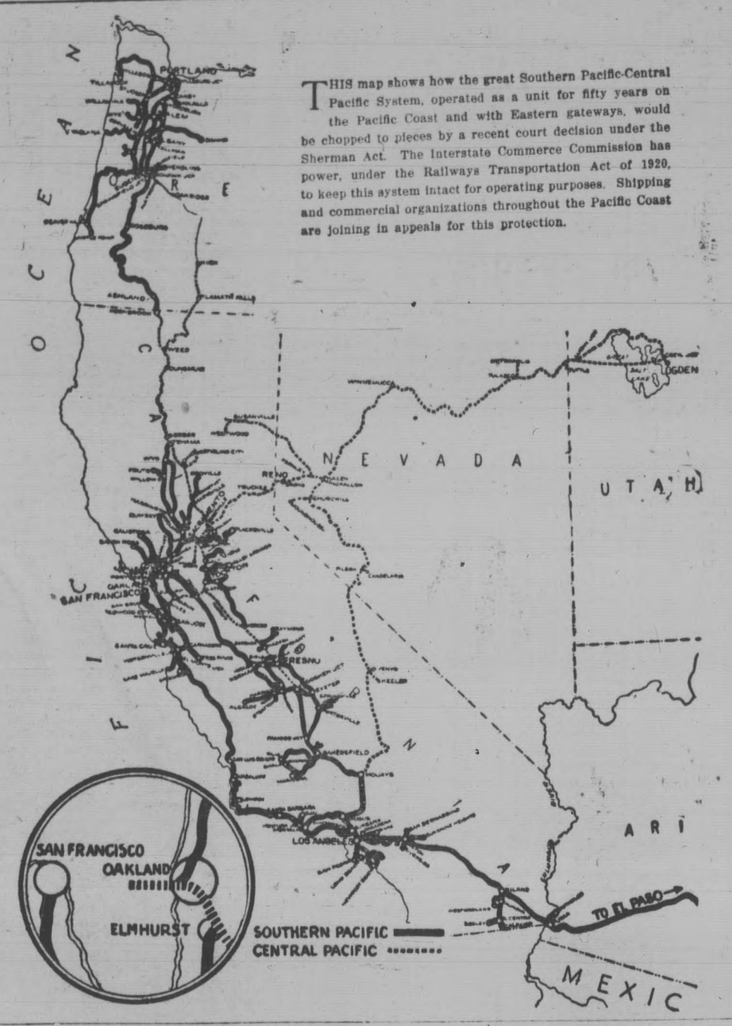
Refreshments were served by the members of the Legion auxiliary, of which Mrs. Norman Malcolm is president.

FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL

Curtis B. Locklin who was deputy county surveyor under the late William B. Gilbert and who has lately been the attorney in charge of mineral land surveys in the office of the surveyor general of California was in Redwood City this week, calling on old friends. Mr. Locklin is a candidate for the office of Surveyor General and is traveling over California, meeting as many people as possible in the furtherance of his desires. He is a graduate of both the University of California and Stanford and after working as a civil engineer became a high school principal. He then became a practising attorney. He was a captain in the engineering department of the U. S. army during the late war. Mr. Locklin is an energetic young man and will doubtless make many friends during the campaign.

Lots of men have made a good deal of money by keeping out of other people's business while others have made it by stealing other people's business.

WHY SHIPPERS ARE PROTESTING!



THIS map shows how the great Southern Pacific-Central Pacific System, operated as a unit for fifty years on the Pacific Coast and with Eastern gateways, would be chopped to pieces by a recent court decision under the Sherman Act. The Interstate Commerce Commission has power, under the Railways Transportation Act of 1920, to keep this system intact for operating purposes. Shipping and commercial organizations throughout the Pacific Coast are joining in appeals for this protection.

KEEP OIL CLEAN

It is safe to say that few things are more important for the efficiency and life of the motor than maintaining clean oil in the crankcase. Inevitably crankcase oil becomes contaminated in various ways—engine operation causes steady accumulation of road dust, carbon, fine metal particles and other impurities. A point is eventually reached at which the lubricating efficiency of this contaminated oil is seriously impaired. Before this happens it is highly important that the used lubricant be cleaned out and replaced with fresh oil. Otherwise serious damage may result.

Automobile manufacturers recommend that the crankcase be given a thorough cleaning at frequent intervals—at least once every 750 miles is the usual recommendation. Truck manufacturers recommend that this operation should be performed at intervals of 250 to 500 miles.

Merely draining out the old lubricant and refilling is not enough. Nor will a preliminary flushing with oil do the job. Kerosene was formerly used as a cleansing agent, but was never entirely satisfactory, and its use is now discouraged. Recently, however, special scientific cleansing agents have been developed which are excellent for the purpose and do not impair the value of the fresh oil.

Crankcase cleaning, being a dirty job and one requiring a good deal of care and special equipment, the oil companies are instituting a modern crankcase cleaning service at garages and dealers. The service is quickly performed and motorists who have availed themselves of it report excellent results in the improved operation of their cars.

TEACERS WILL HAVE EDUCATIONAL AIDS

Educational privileges for teachers in Los Angeles equal to those given in any part of the country are advocated by Dr. Lester B. Rogers, dean of the summer session of the University of Southern California, in arranging the studies. These studies have been especially prepared for the benefit of school teachers, while many branches are given leading to academic degrees.

Dr. Rogers has announced several new courses for teachers who wish to specialize in psychology for work planned in the city schools for the coming year.

Dr. M. Sutherland, director of the department of psychology, and Arthur C. Griffin, director of the department of psychology and educational research of the Los Angeles city schools, will have charge of the classes, which will be given under the direction of the extension division of the university.

TO STUDY GEOGRAPHY

Geography has for many years been neglected in the high schools and relegated to grammar grades, but the University of Southern California has secured William John Miller, Ph. D., head of the department of geology at Smith College, to make it one of the most interesting of the courses in the summer session of the college July 1 to August 12.

Dr. Miller will give special lectures on Yosemite, Yellowstone and Glacier National parks, and the grand canyons of the Colorado and will also cover types of land forms and their origin, interpretation of topographic maps; physiographic provinces of the United States and their relation to life, the ocean, the evolution of coast lines and harbors, climate and its causes, with special reference to the United States.

It is estimated that 19,000,000,000 telephone connections took place in the United States last year. This is an average of 170 completed calls for every man, woman and child in this country.

As many as 2,500,000 farms in the United States are equipped with telephones, nearly two-fifths of all the farms in the country. No other country has anything like this farm telephone development.

FOR A SCENIC ROAD

The San Mateo supervisors, after inspecting the right of way of the old Ocean Shore railroad from Farallone to Rockaway to learn its condition with a view of taking up the matter of making a scenic boulevard, are of the opinion that the old right of way could be used to advantage for a road and would make one of the most beautiful scenic drives in the world. The right of way is at least two miles shorter from Rockaway to Farallone than the present road and would obviate the climbing of the hill over Pedro Mountain, as the old roadbed has practically no grade at all.

All members of the party were satisfied in their opinion that the old roadbed could be made into a fine drive and one that would attract thousands of motorists on account of its scenic beauties. On leaving Rockaway the road winds around Pedro Mountain, giving a grand marine view, such as could not be obtained anywhere else, as the road is built on a shelf a thousand feet above the ocean, giving one of the grandest views of the ocean that can be found anywhere, and joining the present road at Farallone.

Claude M. Hirschey of Hillsborough, candidate for sheriff of San Mateo county, was a caller at the Times-Gazette office yesterday in his rounds searching for votes.

SAVED RICE INDUSTRY

That Senator Hiram W. Johnson has saved the rice industry of California by his successful fight for a higher protective tariff duty on rice is the statement made today by E. L. Dow, president of the River Farm Company of California, the largest rice producing concern in this state.

Senator Johnson obtained the following rates:

Paddy or rough rice, one cent a pound; brown rice, 1 1-4 cents; milled, 2 cents; broken and rice meal, 1-2 of one cent.

Here is what Dow says, speaking for the rice industry of California:

"The untiring and highly successful efforts of Senator Hiram W. Johnson, in obtaining adequate protection for the rice industry of California, not only in the emergency tariff bill, but more recently in the general tariff bill, have saved from destruction one of the most important agricultural and food products of this state.

"The River Farms Company is probably the largest grower of rice in the state. The company has holdings in the upper Sacramento valley and has proved by its experience the highly important function of the growing of rice within this state. Starting, with but a small acreage some ten or eleven yars ago, the growing of rice has now become one of the most important California crops, with plantings during the last few years in excess of two hundred thousand acres.

"Rice is, of course, one of the finest staple food products, but this is not its only value as, secondarily, it has provided for the utilization of land which, heretofore has been practically non-productive; indeed, this is true of the larger part of the two hundred thousand acres now being used for this purpose. In addition, rice is a most valuable rotative crop, perhaps the most valuable known. The rice crop at the present time is worth from ten to twenty million dollars to the Sacramento valley alone.

"The rice industry, however, has been menaced by the importation of oriental rices, which, because of the extremely cheap labor used in the growing and marketing of the crops, make it possible to undersell the actual cost of California rice to the growers.

"The facts and figures in relation to this situation were put at the disposal of Senator Johnson, and the threatened destruction of this great industry was carefully explained to him. Without hesitation, Senator Johnson, immediately championed the cause of the rice industry in California, and obtained temporary relief in the emergency tariff bill. Since that time, and in the present hearings on the rice tariffs, Senator Johnson has led the fight for the proper protection of California rice, and has been able to increase the tariff over the rates fixed in the emergency bill.

"Through all the vicissitudes of committee hearings and opposition from various sources, Senator Johnson has not swerved from the original purpose he set out to accomplish and his untiring efforts and the results achieved by him have been the salvation of the rice industry in this state."

Duck Hunting Reminiscences

By CLAUDE FOX

The experience and knowledge acquired concerning the feeding habits of the canvasback duck over the decoys of Lon Cook proved invaluable to me, but in no wise turned my head for that style of shooting, although in the after years it was my extreme pleasure in company with companions of the future to have some of the grandest shoots at the webfoots that could be desired by the most ardent sportsmen. Cook had put me wise how to acquire the noble birds of the marshland, and in seasons when the cans were more plentiful I took advantage of the instruction given me with disastrous results to that species of the wild water fowl which can be properly classed as the biggest jays that ever swung to the wooden images made to represent them. All ducks are wary to a certain extent, but when a hungry flock of canvasback start for their feeding ground on, as Lon Cook truthfully said, "the first of the flood tide," and you are sitting with a stool of decoys on the line of that flight, they certainly tumble all over themselves in an apparent endeavor to see just which one will be the first to alight.

The sculling boat had for the time being become my affinity; it will never do for me to deny it. There was a fascination about it and that particular style of hunting which simply appealed to me as none other had. The glorious moonlight shoots in the stubble fields and fresh water ponds had enchanted me, but they were now but memories of what had been, and even today while I look back upon the many happy nights spent in pursuit of the webfoots with a degree of pleasure, it is coupled with a feeling of regret that the duck hunting boys of today had no such sport.

The sculling boat and the object for which it was made had me going, so to speak. As one of Redwood's brightest young ladies remarked over at La Honda last summer when asked if she was having a good time, "Don't mention it; there is something doing every minute." So it was with the scull boat, something doing every minute. Each of the large creeks had to be practically laid out on a mental map, their courses thoroughly memorized, as well as each small tributary, both at high and low water; every mudbank carefully laid down for future reference and the height of the tides studied if success was to be yours.

After my little hunt with Cook I was pretty well worn out; his boat was large and heavy and far more difficult to scull than the one-man boat with which I had started out. For a couple of days I rested up, but again the call of the wild, that whirr of the wild duck's wings, the whistle of the widgeon, the chirp of the little green winged teal, was far more music to me than the wireless of today could transmit from a dozen concerts.

Nelson Paddock, who you see every day at the Southern Pacific station, faithfully performing his duties for your Uncle Sam, had been promised some ducks by Cook, but when we reached the old "Poplar Saloon" after our canvasback shoot Nelson was not on hand and Cook had so many friends that the webfoots were soon disposed of. Paddock appealed to me, as he was desirous of sending the birds to a friend in San Francisco.

"Take my boat," he said. "You know she is a little dandy and you will have good luck."

Nelson Paddock spoke the truth. "Sis," as he called her, was certainly a dandy boat to scull. While I have handled many, but one, now owned by Louis Genochio, could compare with the beautiful lines, poise and balance of little "Sis." Louis Werder also owned a scull boat that was, as the small boy says, "a pippin," but I never used it for hunting.

Well, Paddock wanted those ducks and the call of the wild did the balance. On the Saturday morning following my hunt with Cook I stepped into little "Sis" shortly after daylight and away I went. Now that I knew the cutoff into First Slough, I followed practically the same route taken by Lon Cook and myself. My one ambition was to get a big shot, such as I had heard the market hunters had been making, but Cook advised me to follow a different system.

"Now do as I tell you," was one of his favorite expressions. "You mustn't run away with the idea that you are going to get a big shot right off the reel, for you are not; you have just started sculling; whenever you get a chance to kill three, four or five ducks at a shot, take my advice and shoot. At the end of the day you will have some birds. You will get your big shot in time, but do as I tell you."

No sounder advice could have been given an ambitious duck hunter. I did what Cook told me to do and when I reached home that evening 22 birds was my reward. It was not for some time afterward that I got my first big shot, but each successive day down deep in my mind was Lon Cook's advice, which I followed with the result that a nice bunch of birds ornamented my duck strap on each successive hunt.

That morning when I reached Mallard Slough and took in my row oars preparatory to sculling, I realized for the first time the difference between sculling a two-man boat and the one I was in. Little "Sis" felt as light as a feather to me and as I slipped the scull oar into the socket the little boat glided along on the flood tide as though it was greased. Nearing the high tulies where Cook had killed his first three ducks I could hear the widgeon whistling as they fed on the seed falling from the high stalks. Half lying down and sculling slowly along the edge of the bank brought me within easy gunshot in a few moments. Perhaps it was unsportsmanlike not to make them jump, but as I sat upright two old drakes were swimming close together, and taking aim I pulled the trigger. The balance of the flock I could not see, but they flushed and I killed two with the second barrel. Pushing the boat through the tulies I found that three had been killed at the first shot. I was in high glee. Nelson Paddock had his ducks and I was satisfied. It really made no difference to me whether I killed any more or not, but on down the Steinberger creek I sculled, killing a couple of teal, over the cutoff into First slough, which was one of the grandest creeks on the marsh for the wild birds. Walter Welch had told me that by going up into the big gravel bed back of the first fence I could by pulling my boat over the marsh about 20 feet reach the head of Bushy creek, and this I did in order to learn the route. By laying my row oars down on top of the hard marsh and using them for rollers I had no difficulty in crossing the intervening 20 feet and was soon sculling in Bushy creek on the first of the ebb tide.

On turning a sharp bend in the creek at what the boys called "bushy hard bend" my boat grazed along the edges of the high tulies and up jumped two mallard right near the bow of little "Sis." They were too close to shoot at as they flushed. How beautiful they did look, the old drake giving forth that deep throated call as the pair climbed skyward. My little Scott gun fairly flew to my shoulder and when they had reached a distance of 25 yards I doubled them both, one with each barrel. As I laid them away under the bow my eyes feasted on the brilliant plumage and the two teal I had previously killed looked very insignificant in comparison.

At "stargazer bend," named in honor of the late James Cochrane, I bumped into a bunch of widgeon and got six of them. My, how my head did swell! Scull boat shooting was exceeding my fondest dreams. Before I had reached the mouth of Bushy creek to make my turn toward the Elbow mudflats I spotted a small bunch of teal and spoonbill sitting on the edge of the crinkly grass on the bold bank side. It was only necessary to drift as the ebb tide carried me along on its crest and four more dropped as the startled birds suddenly rose. I had dreams of a big shot upon approaching the Elbow slough, but I had been following Lon Cook's advice all morning with good results and I decided to stay with it. One of the market hunters had passed through the Elbow in the morning and few birds were to be found, but when I passed the point where Henry Beeger's cabin now stands and re-entered First slough ducks were found in abundance and while it was hard, patient work sculling against the tide I managed to get half a dozen more shots before I reached the cutoff. Here I found the tide was too low to permit of my going through again, so I secreted little "Sis" in the high tulies, tied her up secure, strapped up my 22 ducks and walked home.

The "Poplar Saloon" was alive with a bunch of week-enders when I entered the door. Nelson Paddock was there waiting to greet me. Cook let out a mighty shout when he saw my bundle of ducks, as he introduced me as "his boy" and as I write these lines it takes no vivid imagination to see him standing there, his black soft hat tilted on the back of his head, as he boisterously slid glasses down the bar, and I can almost hear him exclaim, "Now do just as I tell you and you will come out all right."

For the reason that the office of sheriff appears to be the only natural vacancy in the Redwood City court house in the approaching campaign, or political war, account of the voluntary retirement of our friend and chief, the popular sheriff, old Mike Sheehan, he is affectionately known, and who can very well rest upon his past laurels as constable of the second township and afterwards Sheriff, H. W. Lampkin, his able assistant in the eyes of the people of those parts appears to be the natural successor of his very worthy chief. Every one seems to feel that ... under-sheriff Lampkin has filled the bill in every particular. That he is not only one of our born, natural peace officers, but that he has also devoted every bit of his time and effort toward becoming one of the most efficient and proficient men in this line of work in the whole state of California. One other thing which the folks feel, is so strongly in his favor is that regardless of his exceptional abilities along these lines, he has been modest and manly enough to bide his time and wait his chief's pleasure to retire before becoming a candidate for the office himself. But all of us can remember when this was not always the case. While under the strict rules of seniority, in railroad parlance, we should succeed to the sheriff's job, for Mike will tell you that I am his oldest deputy, yet on account of Lampkin's greater activity and hence his big bump of efficiency I have very modestly and unselfishly retired in his favor.

San Carlos Atheletic Association's new baseball diamond at the end of Cypress avenue has been finished. They have elected Jack Schott manager and coach and Wesley Haydock captain of the team. Saturday they will play the Redwod Park boys.

Little Miss Emilia Burgess returned to her home in Sonora last Saturday after a fortnight's visit at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Victor V. Varillat. The young Miss Burgess made many friends among the little folks of San Carlos during her visit here.

W. S. Alexander, fiscal agent, and W. B. Thompson, field secretary of the Nelson Meat Company were callers at the city hall last Tuesday. The Nelson Meat Company is a co-operative institution and is authorized by the corporation commissioner of California. These gentlemen were in San Carlos to explain the workings of their organization to sell stock and to enlist the interest of the people generally.

Miss Aileen Pierce and Miss Mary Larati came down from San Francisco to enjoy the week end on the Pierce ranch on the old county road opposite the postoffice.

Jimmy McCullough as he is known among his many old time friends and his charming wife are guests at the home of V. J. Merta. Mr. McCullough is one of the successful ranchers of Fraser, Idaho, who has retired and is now enjoying the fruits of his labor. After enjoying a visit of four months with relatives and friends in the cold state of Wisconsin and a sojourn of three months in Imperial Valley they are now touring California. They expect to leave soon for their old stamping grounds in Idaho, but they assure us that they will return to California in the very near future to remain permanently.

The Misses Loreta and Lillian Foercher from Oakland are here as commencement guests at the home of Mrs. Mary E. Quinn. The Misses Foercher were former scholars of our grammar school and made many friends while their parents were residents here. They are both charming and accomplished young ladies whose friendships are assured wherever they go.

Mr and Mrs. J. W. Hopp, who have driven through from their home at Bellingham, Wash., are guests of their cousins, the William Stillhoffs at the Dr. Wiehl place in the White Oaks tract.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Elliott of San Francisco were Sunday visitors at the home of W. H. Nixon at the C. C. Morse trial gardens.

While riding around in the $6,000 machine of a rich relative from San Francisco Sunday afternon we dropped in on Pacific City unawares and we found that "gossip" in the News Leader of San Mateo had exaggerated but very little respecting the attractions and virtues of this fine and expensive addition to the three cities. And while we don't often agree with the Three Cities Chambers of commerce and Mr. Imboden because Mr. Imboden is from Texas instead of Kentucky yet we are small enough to admit that we can't consistently blame the triplet cities from arranging for a fourth of July celebration all their own regardless of the fourth of July celebration arranged for at the San Carlos Speedway under the auspices of the Peninsula Bureau of Chambers of Commerce and civic organizations, and presumably representing the entire San Mateo county. Now that last Sunday's fire burned a big hole in the speedway at San Carlos, making it practically out of the question to handle the fourth of July program at San Carlos it would seem that the one big thing to do, would be to join in making the big celebration at Pacific City the howling success that it deserves to be. For I have discovered that Pacific City is located in San Mateo county.

Mr. L. H. Huntley, a chemist from Portland, Oregon, came down in his car and is enjoying a visit with his sister, Mrs. D. E. Sizer.

Mrs. Lester A. Conklin and her bright little brood of three, accompanied by her father, Mr. Peterson, went over to Oakland for a week end visit with friends and relatives.

Mr. Henry Schomer and Mr. J. J. Johnson, two of our retired gentlemen, who don't have to work only when they feel like it, took advantage of a beautiful day, (which was not a holiday), and when but few death promising machines were on the road for a trip to the Santa Cruz mountains last Saturday. Their objective point was Felton, the old stamping grounds of Mr. Johnson, where he lived for many years before coming to San Carlos. They report a delightful outing and both speak in high praise of the wonderful highway over the hills from Los Gatos to Felton.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Beck Jr., and their little daughter were the Sunday guests of grandpa and grandma Theo. Beck Sr. Theo. Beck Jr. is one of the popular S. P. locomotive engineers who was recently promoted.

Mr. C. A. Anderson the popular superintendent of schools of Rawlins, Wyo., has arrived and will join with his wife and little Charles Jr., in seeing the sights of California during the school vacation. At present they are alternating their visits between the home of papa Anderson Sr., at San Jose, and the home of Mrs. Anderson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Davidson of the San Carlos grocery.

CELEBRATE TWENTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Choate entertained a number of their friends last Saturday and Sunday at their summer home in Redwood Park. The occasion was in honor of the 20th anniversary of their wedding. The guests arrived on Saturday afternoon and camped in the tents provided for them over night. Mrs. Choate had a wonderful dinner provided for. Saturday evening to give the affair the right kind of start. The dinner was followed by dancing, singing and story telling. Sunday the guests enjoyed a rest and visiting day and came home in the evening hoping that the host and hostess would have many more anniversaries. Among those present were: Mr and Mrs. C. E. Choate and their two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. George W. McNulty, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Fred George, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Werder, Mr. and Mrss. George O. Roussel, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Allen and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Genochio, Mr. and Mrs. Mark E. Ryan, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Glennan, Mrs. O. Priest, Harry Moore, George Genochio, Peter Larrecou, A. S. Liguori, Guy P. Hull and Floyd Smith.

CROSS CONTINENT HIKERS

Baby Carmel, 4 years old, who is walking from coast to coast on a wager with her father and mother, were visitors in Redwood Sunday. Carmel and her father walked from Eureka via San Francisco, where her mother joined them. She has gained three pounds to date. She also has a contract with a moving picture company in Los Angeles, then will go to New Orleans, then to Columbus, Ohio, where half of the money will be paid, then to New York City where the remaining $500 will be paid. She also is selling pictures of herself for a little extra money.

$1,000 ASKED AS DAMAGES

G. Cavallero, a resident of San Francisco, on Monday filed suit in the superior court against the Owners' Transportation Company, Henry La Peer and C. J. Constance, for $1,000 on account of the destruction of his automobile in a crash on the state highway about a mile below Redwood City on the night of April 5 last. Cavallero, who is represented by Attorney Albert Picard, alleges that the Owners' Transportation Company left a truck standing partially on the highway, and that La Peer and Constance, who were driving south, turned around the truck directly in his path and struck his machine head on. In Cavallero's machine at the time of the accident were seven small children, but fortunately none were injured, although the car was completely demolished.

ANOTHER SUNSHINE STORE

Another unit of the Sunshine Stores, which will make the seventh of their chain, will be opened very shortly in Burlingame on Broadway at Lagunn. The building is now under construction, and just as soon as same is completed it will be occupied by one of the Sunshine complete grocerterias, which will be number seven.

LOCAL HISTORY

In 1862 William Littlejohn, father of our friend and fellow townsman, Chase Littlejohn, planted a walnut tree in his yard on the corner of Bridge and Washington streets. As time went on the tree grew. Trees somehow have the habit of growing if they are in good soil. Later Bridge street changed its name to Broadway. In the course of time Andrew Carnegie presented a library to Redwood City. The library trustess erected the building in the shade of the old walnut treet. Today at 62 years of age the venerable giant stretches its limbs fully fifty feet and gives shade and beauty to the library and high school. It is a beautifully shaped tree and its great, spreading branches, with their dark green foliage lend a setting that is hard to describe. William Littlejohn was a rare good man and meant much to Redwood City, but he planted much better than he thought when he planted the little walnut shoot in the days when our town was young.

JUDGE SHURTLEFF'S OLD HOME

Judge Charles A. Shurtleff of Menlo Park recently visited his old home county, Shasta, in order that he might again meet some of his boyhood friends. Judge Shurtleff is a member of the Supreme Court of California. He is up for re-election this year and should receive a unanimous vote in San Mateo county.

Reduced passenger rates of one and one-half fare for the round trip from all points on its lines in California and Nevada to Portland, Ore., and return, for those who may attend the national convention, American Institute of Banking and the Pacific Coast division convention, National Paint, Oil and Varnish association, to be held there July 13 and 14 and July 17 to 20, respectively, have been announced by the Southern Pacific Company.

FAILURE TO PROVIDE

Alleging failure to provide, Mrs. Thuryle Kempff filed suit for divorce Tuesday against Frederick Rodgers Kempff. The complaint alleges that Mrs. Kempff was forced to depend on the charity of relatives and friends for some time prior to her separation from Kempff last August.

A suit for separate maintenance, based on similar allegations, was filed by Mrs. Kempff September 23, 1921. At that time a restraining order was granted by Superior Judge Buck to prevent sale by Kempff of property in Atherton. The order was later amended and the suit is now pending.

The couple were married at San Francisco January 30, 1920, and have no children, according to the petition. Mrs. Kempff asks for alimony of $100 per month and restoration of her maiden name, Thuryle Kretzer. She is represented by E. F. Conlin, San Francisco attorney.

GRADUATE FROM STATE TEACHERS' COLLEGE

Four local girls finished their course in the San Jose State Teachers' College Wednesday and were awarded diplomas which will allow them to teach in any elementary school in California. They are Miss Mildred Fox, Miss Rosamond Boulware, Miss Elaine Blanchard and Miss Inez Feliz.

In addition to the regular course Miss Feliz took a years' work in physical education and is qualified to teach that subject in the high schools as well as in the elementary schools of the state.

TRAVELING WITH SHRINERS

Miss Gertrude Beeger decided all of a sudden last week to take the trip to the Hawaiian Islands with the Shriners. The trip was unplanned and will probably be more greatly enjoyed because of that fact. The ship on which she took passage will spend a week in Honolulu and will then take in the sights of the other islands. I will return to San Francisco in about three weeks. Miss Beeger is accompanying friends and as the Shriners are a jolly crowd she will have a wonderful time on her vacation.

DISTRICT ATTORNEYS HOLD CONVENTION

The distrito attorneys of the several counties of California were in session all this week in Placerville. An interesting and varied program was presented and new laws which will be presented at the next sesison of the legislature were discussed.

Franklin Swart, district attorney of San Mateo county, who is secretary of the association, and his deputy, John H. Machado, are both attending the convention.

ARE STANFORD GRADS

A large class was graduated from Stanford University Monday. Among those who received their sheepskins we notice the following from this vicinity: John Frederic Willcox, Redwood City, mechaniacl engineering; Willard John Classen, Menlo Park, geology; Margaret Mitchell Robertson, Redwood City, pre-clinical sciuces; Paul V. Herkman and Mildred Walter, Menlo Park, Romanic languages.

AN OUTING IN THE WOODS

We would like to call the attention of our readers to some of the beauty spots of San Mateo county. Let us take you with us this week to La Honda. The ride up the mountain is one that can hardly be described. When the road was opened a few years ago the San Francisco papers described it as the "Road of a Thousand Wonders." It is all of that and more. On every turn a new scene of beauty meets the eye, perhaps it is the red tiled roofs of Stanford, perhaps it is the sparkling green waters of the Searsville lake or perhaps it is the beautiful expanse of the San Francisco Bay. There is probably no road in the state that affords such a variety of scenic wonders and for its entire length it is so wide and the grade so gradual that it is a pleasure to climb along the summit.

With the summit passed a new vista greets the eye, verdant valleys and towering trees can be seen on every side and nature and nature's God can here be worshipped at all times. The road down to La Honda winds through redwood groves and by murmuring streams and as on this side of the mountain the way is wide and smooth and safe.

La Honda means "the road between the trees." The town is just a little place nestling in the valley at the foot of the tree covered hills. There are a few houses, a school, a garage, a hotel, a postoffice, a store and Bonzagni's. At Bonzagni's we may have a meal that is a marvel of culinary art and the modesty of the charge is more surprising than the meal. It is all that could be wished and then a little more for good measure.

Satisfied and happy, a trip on through ways where the towering trees shut out the sky overhead and where the fisherman whipping the fern banked stream finally brings you to Troutmere. Here you can see the little deer and their little mother feeding in the paddock, while over a little ways is the father deer with his new set of horns that are covered with velvet. Then if you want to you can catch your trout at Troutmere. Anyone can catch a trout there and it can be as large as your purse will permit. Then you can go on through the other beautiful places and home via Halfmoon Bay and the lakes and see the wonders over again, but they won't be the same, for an afternoon sun or an evening twilight will give them new shades and shadows that will convince you that you are in a new world and then as the evening twilight fades you will find yourself back in Redwood, one of the finest towns God ever gave to a people.
